

TEN BUILDINGS BEING ERECTED IN COLUMBIA

Contractors Say High Cost of Materials Lessens Number of Residences in Construction.

MUCH REPAIRING DONE Housing Shortage Causes Apartments to Be Built—Neff Hall Occupied in October.

"The high price of building materials has not affected the erection of public buildings," said B. B. Phillips of the Davis & Phillips Construction Company today, "but has greatly lessened the number of residences being built in Columbia this year."

The largest building now being erected here is the Boone County Hospital, which, when it is completed next September, will have cost $150,000 and will measure 144 by 47 feet. It will be fireproof throughout, being constructed of reinforced concrete, brick and Bedford stone.

The first floor will be taken up by a large dining room, a kitchen, an emergency operating room and storerooms. The second floor will have a sun parlor, a lobby and patients' rooms. Two operating rooms, sterilizing rooms and diet kitchen will be situated on the third floor. A large salararium and sun roof where convalescent patients may exercise will be the features of the fourth floor.

The county hospital idea is rather a new one in Missouri, Boone County being the third county in the state to have a building of this kind.

The increased enrollment in all the educational institutions in Columbia has made more buildings necessary. Stephens and Christian Colleges are building dormitories which will soon be finished. On the University campus there are two buildings under construction.

The Home Economics Building, which will be the first building of its kind in the state, is being built on the East Campus. It will be three stories high and will cost $100,000. It will be of stone to harmonize with the other buildings on that campus. Offices, well-equipped laboratories and classrooms will occupy all three floors and the basement. It will be completed by July 1.

Jay H. Neff Hall, the new journalism building on the West Campus, is almost completed. The pressrooms and some of the offices are already in use and all the classrooms will be ready in October.

A University observatory will soon be built across from the golf links. The plans have already been adopted. They provide for a wood and stone structure to contain a laboratory, transit room, instrument room, classrooms and offices.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house, which was recently burned, is being rebuilt on the same lines as before and it is expected to be finished by January 1.

The Columbia Daily Tribune building will be completed in two months.

The increased demand for private houses and the scarcity of residences for rent has caused an increased number of apartment houses. James A. Butler is building a three-story apartment house on Anthony street which will be finished soon. It will contain twelve apartments.

The old Beasley Academy Building, which was used by the University at one time, is being remodeled and made into an apartment house with twelve apartments. It will be ready for occupancy in three weeks.

An unusually large amount of repair work is also being done here, the Daniel Boone Tavern alone having spent $600 for this purpose within the last few months.

Cackling Hens In inter Will Hold Egg Record In Summer

When the weather is cold and your hens are not laying well, don't neglect to notice their egg records. This is the advice of H. L. Kempster of the poultry husbandry department of the College of Agriculture.

Winter egg records give one a good index on what the fowls are going to do the rest of the year, according to Mr. Kempster, and winter layers make the best records.

In experimenting to prove this, the poultry husbandry department found that out of a flock of 211 hens, those birds which laid fifty-one eggs in winter averaged 160 eggs in summer, while out of a flock of 124 hens those which laid twenty-four eggs in winter averaged 100 eggs in summer and that out of a flock of eighty-three in which twenty-six birds averaged seventeen eggs in winter, they averaged sixty-one eggs in summer. Mr. Kempster advises, therefore, that fowls which make good winter egg records be used for breeding.

Those hens that have an average between 185 and 200 eggs breed a progeny which also have a high egg-laying record. The experiment station of this poultry husbandry department has a project for establishing certified farms in the state which will be able to furnish good breeding stock.

The proper housing of chickens figures largely in increasing egg production. Mrs. E. E. Carter of Troy built a chicken

PLAYGROUNDS GIVEN WAR AREA

French to Carry on Work
Financed by Junior Red
Cross of America.

By United Press.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—(By Mail).—Simultaneously with the opening of the first modern playground in Paris, the Junior Red Cross of America has organized four similar projects in the devastated regions, at Reims, Amiens, Rethel and Guise. Twelve million American school children, members of the Junior Red Cross, have financed the movement.

The new playground is laid out on the terraces of the fortifications near the Porte de Bagnolet. The playground has been in actual operation for the past three weeks. A large enclosure on the grass-covered terraces of the fortifications has been fenced off.

The playground is large enough to accommodate five hundred children at one time. It is fully equipped, according to the latest American ideas, with swings, trapezes, "giant slides," toboggans, and various athletic paraphernalia. Competent American instructors supervise the play and teach American games and exercises. Every afternoon the children, who come largely from the homes of the poor in the Twentieth Arrondissement, are given a hot drink, bread and chocolate.

Assisting the American instructors at the Bagnolet playground are a number of young Frenchwomen who are being trained in care of the work after the Junior Red Cross of America withdraws.

The program was planned by Colonel Calot Ward, formerly Park Commissioner of New York City. The direction of the work is now being carried on by Mrs. Alice Ingersoll Thornton of Washington, D. C. In charge of the Bagnolet playground is Miss E. R. Deal of Philadelphia.

IMPORTANT SPANISH ALLIANCE

Duke of Alba, Well-Known Sportsman Marries to Marquesa del Barco.

By United Press.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—One of the most important Spanish alliances for many years was consummated here today when the duk of Alba was married to the Marquesa San Vincente del Barco, only daughter of the duke and duchess of Aliaga and granddaughter of the duke of Tarrifa.

The ceremony which took place at the handsome Spanish embassy on Grosvenor Gardens, was strictly private, owing to the bridegroom being in mourning for his aunt, the late ex-Empress Eugenie. Ambassador Merry del Val represented King Alfonso, and acted as one of the "sponsors" usual in Spanish marriages of high rank, while the duchess of Santona, sister of the bridegroom, was the other sponsor.

The duke of Alba is well-known and popular in England as a sportsman. The guests included the duke and duchess of Aliaga, the duke of Penaranda, the duke and duchess of Almaraz, the duke and duchess of Montellano and Marlene Merry del Val, wife of the Spanish ambassador.

The duke of Alba also possesses the

SHORT COURSE TO BE POPULAR

Ag College Predicts Larger Attendance Than Last Year.

By far the largest number of inquiries ever received have come in regarding the agricultural short course, it is said at the office of the assistant dean of the College of Agriculture.

The short course, which begins October 1 and again on January 3, gains its largest enrollment from Boone County. An increase is assured over the 304 students enrolled last year.
